Another Moment for Teachers Oct 24 2019 You will need 30 seconds. That's all. Start at the beginning, or turn to a random page. Every page has a title, a purpose, and simple directions. Read and complete the task on the page. If you know that you are in the mood for a creative, confidence-boosting, stress-releasing, or mindfulness-promoting task, use the Index at the back of the book to choose the one that fits your interest. Notice the positive changes you go through because you took that 30 second break. Most of these tasks can also be shared with your students, allowing them to benefit too. The changes you'll experience will last far longer than 30 seconds. You'll find yourself gaining more presence, patience, confidence and becoming much happier if you do this regularly. The energy in your classroom will positively change, and your students are sure to notice too. Using this book could become a wonderful little daily ritual. By the way, the writing tasks have a blank page beside them for jotting your notes. Go ahead and write in the book. As you add your thoughts, the book will become a meaningful record of your thinking. Later, when you read what you wrote, your words will be integrated into your reflective process, displaying how you've grown.

On The Go English Dec 07 2020 Are you an English language teacher that struggles to find quality teaching resources and don't have the time to create them? Are you an English language student who has a hard time finding interesting materials to help you practice your grammar and vocabulary in meaningful ways? Then this is the book for you! This book is a collection of materials that I have created throughout my English teaching career. They are meant to give students the opportunity to use the language in engaging ways and to practice pertinent skills, such as writing and speaking. The book is aimed at students in Pre-Intermediate and Intermediate levels and is best suited for teenagers to adults. I know how stressful teaching English can be and how important it is to have good quality materials to supplement the required coursebook. This book is for teachers and students who are always on the go and don't have the time to look for supplementary materials. Looking on the internet can be overwhelming and resource books are sometimes insufficient. I have utilized all of these lessons with my students on numerous occasions and can guarantee they will be successful! In the future, I hope to create more books for other levels. So if you're a busy teacher or student of English and are looking for some exciting and useful resources, you should buy my book!

Using Data to Improve Learning Dec 27 2019 This guide explains how teachers can incorporate 'no-frills' engagement with data, collected by themselves and others, into day-to-day teaching so that the process is useful, empowering, and enjoyable. The book presents strategies that are practical enough to attract teachers' interest, feasible enough to implement in ongoing and sustainable ways, and rigorous enough to make immediate and positive differences to teaching and learning. Appropriate for all those who are new to engaging with data, for those who may have little access to support from mentors or critical friends, and for those who want to extend the way they use data in their school or classroom, Using Data to Improve Learning provides a practical understanding of the principles of action research and school-based inquiry. In recognition of the challenges faced by busy teachers - the constant swathe of initiatives and reforms, and the complexity of schools and school systems - the value of collaboration is emphasized. With teachers working together to collect, analyze, discuss, and act upon data (both quantitative and qualitative), the objectives of meeting professional standards and improving learning outcomes of students are shown to be not only achievable, but essential to effective teaching today. The 10-minute Pause for Busy Teachers Mar 29 2020 Teaching has never been more challenging. Trying to meet the needs of diverse learners with limited time and resources can deplete even the most dedicated teacher. One simple strategy for regaining energy is a pause. Turning off the noise for just 10 minutes can restore peace and balance. Creating a routine around the pause in the morning and evening brings the comfort of predictability in an otherwise chaotic time. And consistent reflection can help you make a greater and more consistent impact on students and find more satisfaction in teaching. This 90 day journal provides prompts for a peaceful and productive 10-minute pause in the morning and 10-minute pause in the evening. The morning prompts help teachers determine a feeling and focus for the day, rather than allowing circumstances and events to determine how the day will go. The evening prompts help teachers release the day's stress, reflect on the successes, and identify moments of gratitude. Pausing with this reflective tool is a powerful way to bring more joy and fulfillment to the teaching day.
